

NAME : SENGAFU ELLA VENSOLI

DEPARTMENT: MEDICAL AND BIOMEDICAL SCIENCES

ASSIGNMENT:

A)

My principal motivation for choosing to join the nursing profession was my passion for saving lives, as well as the increase need for Health Care Personnel globally. Again, the nursing field is one which is clearly essential in today's world and can't be substituted for modern technology, guaranteeing the continuous availability of employment opportunities which will permit me to go on with my daily activities and financial needs. Furthermore, I was motivated by the unending thirst for knowledge on how the human body functions as well as the many opportunities the nursing field could present me with, such as the creation of connections within the healthcare domain.

B)

If ever starting over was an option, I would choose the nursing profession because as earlier stated, I am very passionate and driven by my willingness to save lives as well as the beauty of the profession as I believe in the fact that passion and love for your profession are very essential in the carrying out of the activities related to the profession.

2.

Personally, I believe in the philosophy of caring and treating every human equally, taking into consideration their distinct features and personalities not considering their ethnicity, gender or physical ability. I strive to prevent illness and restore health as well as act as an advocate for the population and lead by example.

A)

My vision of myself in the next five years is a fully experienced nurse, ensuring the maintenance, and restoration of my patient's health as well as the prevention of illness, not forgetting upholding and promoting the name of the facility in which I find myself working.

B)

In order to achieve my objectives, I shall carry out my professional activities in the most ethical manner possible, respecting preventive measures and carrying out more research in order to find better ways to carry out my activities and leading by example.
